

Abstract

The invention relates to an electro-optical component 5 with a millimeter or submillimeter antenna and an optical receiver. In order, in the case of such an electro-optical component, to achieve the situation in which millimeter waves or submillimeter waves can be generated particularly well, the invention provides for 10 the optical receiver to be an electroabsorption modulator.